

HISTORY

Did you know at one time there were steam trains running in and out of Devoran every day?

In the early 19th century there were countless mines scattered everywhere around Devoran. These trains took precious copper and tin from the mines to the port at Devoran.

Walk Strong, Stroll Slow in Devoran

As you drive past the colourful scenery of the old creek, you will find short cut grass in a meadow, surrounding gravel paths next to a wild nature reserve. If you have forgotten a picnic then you could always stop for a bite at the Old Quay Inn.

steps of walk

You start your amazing walk at the beautiful Village Hall . Next , take a right turn on to stylish Market street , past the Old School on your right. Cross St Johns Terrace . Study the fascinating gravestones as you walk up through the church yard, continue up a farm lane ,to a stile on your left. Turn left over the stile and take a right turn across the beautiful field . Next, past Devoran Middle Farm. Jump over the stone stile, walk along the country lane and turn right through a metal gate. After that, pass two more gates and stroll along some wooded paths. Follow the steep track down to a small road leading back to the village on your right. First left here and you should see Devoran Quay ahead. Follow Quay Road round to the right and arrive back at Devoran Village Hall!
